Talascend adds recruiting manager to its expanding London office

Talascend has expanded its London team again this week with the hire of Aytan Hilton, who has joined as Recruiting Manager for the branch. With over four years in the recruitment industry, Aytan started in the Construction industry, moving into the Rail sector three years ago. He started as a Recruitment Consultant and quickly worked his way up to Key Accounts Manager.

At Talascend, Aytan will focus on leading the growing team of recruiters who are making placements across a number of professional white collar engineering disciplines.

"I aim to help the talented and experienced Talascend team deliver exceptional client service," says Aytan. "As the economy begins to recover it is a great time to be exploring new opportunities and building on recent account wins. I have every confidence that together we will enjoy some excellent results in the coming year."
